

Looking for money to help fund a project?

ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH MINI-GRANT OPPORTUNITY

Who We Are

The Environmental Health Program at the Center for Energy & Environmental Education (CEEE) addresses the overlap of ecological sustainability and human health and provides UNI students experiences to address real-world environmental health issues in their communities by putting science into action.

Grant Supports

Examples include, but not limited, to:

- student experiences in class or through a student organization
- research & community projects
- trips or travel
- honoraria for invited guest speakers for a class or an on-campus event
- education campaigns on an environmental health topic of your choosing!

Details

Who Can Apply?

UNI faculty, staff, students, and student groups who engage in high-impact projects in coordination with CEEE staff.

Funding Amount

Up to $5,000 per project

Application & Additional Information

Online application can be found at <https://ceee.uni.edu/environmental-health-mini-grant>

QUESTIONS?

Environmental Health Program Associate:
brittany.latch@uni.edu

319-273-7150

CEEE 109

